*One Section in Platoon commanded by Lance-corporal.

 Amendment of 28th November 1940 allowed for 36 Thompson sub-machine guns per Battalion, which were intended for commanders of Rifle Sections.

Notes

1. The original War Establishment gives a figure for the number of Corporals in Headquarters and Platoons but does not specifically identify the position that they occupied. Some of these I have assumed and noted as such in the above.
2. Only two personnel are positively identified as Lance-corporals. With 40 allowed across the whole Battalion there would be sufficient for one per Rifle Section but this is not explicitly stated.
3. No rank is stated for either the Battalion Quarter-master or the attached Medical Officer (RAMC).
4. A batman was provided for each Officer, the Regimental Serjeant-major and the Medical Officer.
5. Scottish Battalions and Irish Battalions (except the RUR) will be allowed one Serjeant Piper and five Pipers in addition. A Battalion of Foot Guard will be allowed two Drill Serjeants (Warrant Officers, class II) in addition.
